

Exploring the links between hearing loss and susceptibility to developing anxiety

Who can take part? People who are 18+ with or without hearing loss and who have not been diagnosed with anxiety disorder.

There are some other health exclusions, please see the study detail by scanning the QR code.

What is in it for me? Your participation will help develop research to understand possible links between anxiety and hearing loss.

We offer £35 reimbursement for study time and additional for travel (if you are eligible for study).

What would happen if I took part in the research study?

You'll answer some questions to check your eligibility to join the study.

If you are eligible and happy to continue we will measure your heart rate, breathing rate and blood pressure. You'll answer a questions about symptoms of anxiety.

You will breathe air with added carbon dioxide for 20 minutes. We will continue measuring your heart rate and breathing rate. You can take the mask off and stop at any point.

After removing the mask we will measure your heart rate, breathing rate and blood pressure and ask you to complete a brief questionnaire about anxiety symptoms.
